Dear all,

Due to the ongoing situation around the coronavirus, Taraloka has decided to cancel all our residential retreats until 20th August. We will be closely monitoring the situation to see when it could be possible to re-open with appropriate social distancing measures.

Instead, we are offering an online programme over the summer – take a look at what's available. And we are offering talks, led meditations and other inspiration on Taraloka's Youtube channel.

If you are booked on a Taraloka retreat:

We are contacting everyone booked on a retreat between now and 20th August to offer a refund of your booking fee. Like so many others, Taraloka will be heavily affected financially by the impact of Covid-19, so any donations of booking fees would be much appreciated.

If you are booked on a Taraloka retreat which commences AFTER 20th August, please wait to hear from us. We will contact all affected retreatants with at least two weeks notice if it is necessary to cancel further retreats. Our usual refund and transfers policy still applies to bookings on retreats after 20th August.

We offer deepest well-wishing to all of you whose lives are being impacted by the new Coronavirus, particularly those unwell or isolated. This pandemic is affecting everyone, across cultures and countries: may we be able to open with compassion to the universal nature of this suffering.

We will keep reviewing the situation as it changes and will post any updates here. And we hope to be able to welcome you back to Taraloka as soon as is safely possible.

With love and care,

The Taraloka Team
